

Solidarity support for sacked bus company activist

 Sweden

Unions in Veolia, the multinational which owns the Connex transport company, organised an international day of solidarity in support of Swedish activist Per Johanssen, sacked for expressing concerns about health and safety. In Finland, for example, bus drivers demonstrated their solidarity by stopping their buses for two minutes at 2pm.

Read more at > EPSU

Read more at > Finnish news site

epsucob

epsucob@NEWS 28 November 2005

- Printer-friendly version