

Childcare workers' court victory

 Hungary

(May 2016) The BDDSz childcare workers' union (one of EPSU's newest affiliates) secured an important legal victory at the end of May. Following strike action earlier this year, the legality of the strike had been challenged by the government which had argued that the union should have provided a minimum level of service. The legal challenge went through the whole legal process and the highest court ruled in favour of the union saying that the nature of the service did not require the minimum service.
