

Union warns of threat to working time rules

 Switzerland

(March 2017) The vpod public services union says that unions need to resist proposals from a national commission for further deregulation of working time. The union warns that if the commission's recommendations are implemented this will lead to more overtime, more night work and more Sunday working. Vpod has also attacked the idea that certain categories of senior managers and specialists should be exempt from working time rules.
