

Solidarity with Portuguese workers on strike for better pay and quality public services

(26 October 2018) The Portuguese public sectors unions are taking strike action for better pay 26 October 2018. The unions demand an end to precarious contracts in the public administration. They seek a pay increase after years of low wage growth and demand more investment in public services to deliver high quality public services. Unions from all public services are involved. EPSU has sent a message of solidarity wishing all much success.
