

Unions protect pay levels in Red Cross

 Italy

Trade unions organising in the Red Cross (FP CGIL, FP CISL, UIL and CISAL) have managed to secure an agreement on supplementary payments that protects employees' purchasing power over the last two years. Although bargaining over basic pay is still frozen, unions ensured that the Red Cross used additional funds to cover pay rather than allocated on other areas of spending. The unions have also ensured that they will be involved in negotiations over the process of transforming the organisation into a private association with particular concerns for application of the national agreement and protection of staffing levels.
