

Federations attack block on local government law

 Italy

The three federations organising in local and regional government - Fp-Cgil, Csil-Fp and Uil-Fpl - have warned that they will mobilise their members if the Senate doesn't unblock legislation relating to bargaining in the sector. The unions say that the freezing of the legislation means that local government workers face threats to additional payments and even the prospect of employers taking back pay increments. The federations point out also the threat to local government services as workers have been trying to maintain services while seeing collective bargaining blocked and recruitment frozen.
