New study reveals challenge facing public service unions

Türkiye

The FES trade union-linked research institute has published a new study on the recent developments in Turkish trade unions. It looks at membership in the six confederations, the legal framework and the attack on the right to strike. Civil service unions face a ban on both collective bargaining and the right to strike. The report includes information on union density and the organising of sub-contracted workers where there have been membership gains.

FES (EN)
epsucob
2018 December epsucob@NEWS 23

Printer-friendly version

Policies
Collective Bargaining
Union Rights