

NORWAY

Information from Fagfobundet 25.3.20

Lock-down continues: Norwegian government continues all measures taken to combat the outbreak of coronavirus in Norway until April 13.

On March 12, 2020, the government implemented a number of measures in the hope of stopping the virus. The measures are the strongest and most radical we have had in Norway in peacetime. Kindergartens, schools and universities are closed. There are also small and large businesses, restaurants, gyms and concert venues. Many stores and businesses are without customers as a result of infection control measures.

According to government the measures seem to slow down the infection, but we need more time to see what effect they have. The government has laid down a strategy to limit the spread of infection, which means that each person who is infected should be infected to a maximum of one other person. Then the health care system will have the capacity to help anyone who needs it.

The health service is implementing a number of measures to have the capacity to provide treatment to the sick coronary infected, while providing immediate relief and treatment to patients with other serious illnesses.

Hospitals are now working to reduce planned treatments and surgeries and turn capacity over to patients in need of intensive care and respirators.
