

French health unions strike on Valentine's day - From Ukraine with Love

(17 February 2020) The French unions organized a national day of strikes and protests on Valentine's day 14 February. They showed their love for patients, workers and public health care and their anger over the government actions. The participation was massive across the country. The unions received unexpected support from the Ukrainian health workers. They organized a protest outside the French embassy in Kiev.
