

Social dialogue and collective bargaining in healthcare

 Bulgaria

Despite the problems of restructuring, large-scale job cuts and declining union membership, a report from EIRO suggests that unions in the health sector have managed to make progress in collective bargaining. A new collective bargaining round is underway over new two-year agreements. In the recent years the unions have won improvements in working hours and ensured that issues like violence and stress are covered in the collective agreements.

Read more at >EIRO

epsucob

03 epsucob@NEWS 3 February 2006

- Printer-friendly version